4. NOTABLE FEATURES, HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE AND DESCRIPTION 413 South Main Street is a small house of telescopic form, dating apparently from the mid-nineteenth century. The larger part is two bays long and two stories tall. The second part is also two stories but is lower than the first. It is only one bay long. And finally is a one-bay, one-story wing with hand riven fishscale shingle on its gable. The entire structure is covered with shingle but on the north end has fishscale shingles. A small chimney pierces the 'A' roof at north and south ends. Other than being a small telescopic dwelling, there is little to recommend it for preservation.
